Concentrating South of Yuan Pudza

LOOTING OF LIAO YANG WAS THOROUGHLY DONE

Russians it Is Said Forgot All Discipline.

THE CHINESE PILLAGED PLACES

Not Found By the Russians and Then Came the Japs, Who Broke Loose Upon Entering the Town.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 12.—General Kuropatkin today reports that the Japanese are concentrated at Yuan Pudza, to the south of Mukden. The general staff here denies the report that General Linevich is advancing from Vladivostok toward Korea to cut off the Japanese line. Kuropatkin, the officials say, is now organizing his troops which were somewhat demoralized during the retreat toward Mukden.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 12.—A report printed in the London morning Post today, that General Sasselitch and his force of 3,000 Cossack and Russian rear guard, had been captured by the Japanese is denied in official circles here. It is also stated that there is no truth in the report that Rear Admiral Prince Utkomsky had been shot for disobeying an order of the Czar not to return to Port Arthur, after the sortie of August 10. The prince's disobedience, however, will result in his recall.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 12.—Reports from Mukden this morning state that the rain continues. Reports say that the Russians quartered about Mukden, are in danger of starvation.

General Kuropatkin reports that he has received no news of any engagement today. A considerable force of Japanese, he says, have been seen forty kilometers southwest of Mukden.

London, Sept. 12.—The Morning Post states that official Russian dispatches received in London announce that Lieutenant General Zassalitch, who commanded the portion of the Russian rear guard south of the Hun river, has been severely wounded and captured, with 3,000 out of his 5,000 men. It is reported that Generals Zaroubaiev, Kondratovitch and Bilderling have checked Kuroki's advance.

Tientsin, Sept. 12.—The looting of Liao Yang has few parallels in the annals of warfare. Three armies on three different days had possession of the city and engaged in acts of depredation. When the Russians entered into the occupation of Liao Yang they built a model Russian city outside the old walled Chinese town, and thousands of troops were lodged within its gates. When the Japanese drove the Russians out of Shanshan hills the Russian soldiers realized that the town must fall and forgot all discipline. They looted the town, sparing neither Chinese nor European shops, destroying what they could not carry away. They wantonly destroyed great quantities of foodstuffs and other goods, ripping open bales, bags and boxes with the ever ready bayonet and scattering their contents over the streets. Much liquor was found, and the soldiers, becoming drunk, committed further excesses. During the interim of the departure of the Russians and the arrival of the Japanese the Chinese soldiers and police finished the work the Russians began, pillaging the shops that were not found by the Russians. Then when the Japanese came they completed the looting. They had been fighting for five days without food except dry rice, and broke loose upon entering the town. The Japanese looted right and left.

Other bodies of cavalry, with military, are located at Hungshanlin, on the eastern road out of Mukden, as well as in the neighborhood of Ymentzushan. (Continued on Page 6, fourth col.)

PANAMA'S

Action Declares Buneau Varilla Was Without Duress From United States Government.

Paris, Sept. 12.—M. Buneau-Varilla, former minister of Panama to the United States, has written a letter relative to the statement that he, while minister at Washington, gave his formal adhesion to American control of Ancon and Cristobal. He says that in a letter written to Secretary Hay Jan. 19 last he had the purpose of reaching a clear understanding upon certain articles of the Hay-Buneau-Varilla treaty, "which its adversaries were trying to defeat through subtle senate amendments." He sent a copy of the letter to the Panama government Jan. 15, which therefore fully understood the situation before the senate ratified the treaty. The Panama government did not ask him to modify the declaration given to Mr. Hay. Therefore it was the free action of Panama without duress from the United States, as has been asserted. The letter of M. Buneau-Varilla maintains the correctness of the American contention throughout the Panama transaction, and declares that President Roosevelt, in protecting Panama against Colombia, "performed his bounden duty, his whole duty, and nothing beyond his duty."

OVERLAND

From St. Louis the First Long Wireless Message Is Received on Chicago's Lake Front.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Seated on a packing box at a wooden bench in the American DeForest Wireless Telegraph company's station on the lake front, at the foot of Oak street, a telegraph operator yesterday received the first long wireless message from St. Louis to Chicago, traversing the greatest distance overland ever attempted in wireless telegraphy.

The message, a congratulatory epistle from President Abraham White, in St. Louis, to Vice President Lee DeForest in Chicago, was 400 words long, and was followed quickly by others, received by the operator without difficulty.

The Chicago station has heretofore been used only for lake service on boats and to Michigan points and Milwaukee.

As a result of this successful experiment business messages will be received in Chicago from St. Louis during the rest of the Fair at regular wire rates. In October the station at the Union Stock Yards will be completed.

GAINS

Made by Democrats in Maine

OFFSET RESULTS OF SLUMP IN VERMONT

Republicans Concede Inroads on the Vote.

PINE TREE STATE ELECTION

Republicans Carried the State For Governor Cobb, But the Democrats Made Good Gains.

Esopus, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Satisfaction is expressed here this morning over the result of yesterday's election in Maine. Judge Parker's sympathizers are elated that in a state so overwhelmingly Republican, putting forth a vote the largest in its history since 1888, the Democrats should have made a gain of 21 per cent to a Republican gain of 15 per cent.

Augusta, Maine, Sept. 12.—Gov. Hill, retired executive, admits that the Democrats have gained 31 per cent, while the Republicans, despite activity, have only gained 14 1/2 per cent.

While the Democrats lost the executive, as was a foregone conclusion, they have gained several members in the Representatives and two Senators, giving them four members of the upper House. Governor Hill says they have 19 per cent of the representative strength now, as against 12 per cent 1900.

Portland, Me., Sept. 12.—The Republicans carried the state for William T. Cobb of Rockland, the candidate for governor, by a plurality of about 30,000, over Cyrus W. Davis of Waterville, his Democratic opponent. The complete returns will not be received for several days, but 200 out of 522 cities, towns and plantations give Cobb 59,705, Davis 38,392. The same places in 1900 gave Hill (Rep.) 51,707, Lord (Dem.) 29,302. These returns show a Republican gain of about 15 per cent and a Democratic gain of about 31 per cent over 1900. The vote for governor will probably be the largest since 1888.

All four Republican members of congress were re-elected. Amos L. Allen in the First and Charles E. Littlefield in the Second were returned by practically the same pluralities as in 1900, while in the Third Congressman E. C. Burleigh ran ahead of his vote of four years ago. In the Fourth district Congressman Llewellyn Powers was re-elected by about 6,500 plurality, compared with 8,800 two years ago.

The Democrats make slight gains in both branches of the legislature, but not enough to affect the re-election of United States Senator Eugene Hale.

RUSSIAN

Cruiser Lena Will Remain Until Close of the War.

San Francisco Sept. 12.—Guarded by the United States torpedo boat Paul Jones, the Russian auxiliary cruiser, Lena, lies at anchor off the Union Iron Works and there is likely to remain until the close of the war. Admiral Casper F. Goodrich, at 6 o'clock Monday evening received from Russian Consul Paul Kosakovich and Captain Berinsky, of the Lena, a statement concerning the condition of the vessel. In that formal presentation it was declared that several months of work would be necessary before the Lena would be in condition to put to sea. Lieut. Herbert of the cruiser New York, inspected the vessel, finding her boilers practically worthless. His report, together with the Russian statement was sent directly to Washington. It is considered a certainty that the vessel will disintegrate here and stay until the end of the war.

Lena Needs Repairs.

Washington, Sept. 12.—After a conference this morning at the state department between Acting Secretary of State Aldie, Judge Penfield, solicitor of the state department and Captain Pillsbury, assistant chief of the bureau of navigation, it was authoritatively announced that the Russian auxiliary cruiser Lena, at San Francisco, was in actual need of repairs, requiring about six weeks time to complete them, and that under the law she would be permitted to make these repairs. It was stated in addition, however, that anything in the nature of exceeding such repairs as are necessary to make her seaworthy would be prevented by the authorities.

The latter was removed from the wreckage shortly after the accident but it was some time before Greenland's body was removed. His home was at Hamilton. None of the passengers was seriously hurt.

REMARKABLE

EXPLANATION IS THAT OFFERED BY GEN. CRITCHFIELD.

Reason Ohio Didn't Land In First Place Was Marksmen Were Out of Bore of Their Rifles.

Columbus, O., Sept. 12.—Adjutant General A. B. Critchfield is out in a most remarkable explanation of the reason the Ohio team did not win the first prizes in the national rifle contest at Sea Girt.

It is that they were out of the bore of their rifles. General Critchfield said: "Ohio was in the lead on most of the big matches and only fell down on long range, where we ought to have been strongest. Captain Winder felt that something was wrong, and had the guns examined at the close of the shooting. To his surprise, the experts on the ground discovered that the bore was completely worn out and the boys were shooting with smooth guns. We have learned that the new guns, after having been shot several thousand times, as they were at the range, are wholly useless for scientific shooting. Had the boys known the bore of the guns had been made perfectly smooth by constant practice, and had charged arms, I do really believe that every prize worth having would have come to Ohio."

Col. Edward T. Miller and Captain Winder have gone to Creedmore, N. Y., to take part in the New York contest.

TRAIN

Was Held Up in Iowa This Morning

HIGHWAYMEN ESCAPED WITH THE MONEY

After Dynamiting Express and Baggage Cars.

STOLE ENGINE FROM THE TRAIN

Three Special Train With Officers on Board, Start In Pursuit of the Robbers.

Letts, Iowa, Sept. 12.—Rock Island train No. 11, which usually carries a large amount of money, was held up near here soon after midnight this morning. The baggage and express cars were dynamited, the safe blown open and all its contents taken. Officers from here are in pursuit of the bandits, who escaped on an engine, which they stole from the train which they held up. A special train with 21 men on board left Muscatine at 2:30 a. m. Another special with eight men left West Liberty and a third special is to leave later from Davenport and Rock Island, all in pursuit of the robbers.

One hundred armed men are now in pursuit of the robbers, who got between $10,000 and $20,000 from the express car.

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 12.—One hundred men, well armed and divided into four groups comprising the officials of three counties and four cities, are today pursuing five train robbers who this morning at a sharp curve near Letts, Iowa, held up the Rock Island train to Kansas City, dynamiting the express car, got between $10,000 and $20,000, and made their escape with the engine which they abandoned near Columbus Junction, Iowa. These men had been enamped across the Mississippi from Muscatine for four days and the police have a good description of them.

Shortly after leaving Emmitt and just before reaching the scene of the robbery, the train was signalled and was stopped. The five masked men boarded the train, covered the fireman and engineer and compelled them to cut off the engine. They then blew up the safe in the express car, partially wrecking the car. They secured all the valuables, boarded the engine, leaving the engineer and fireman with the train. The engine rushed through Letts at high speed. When within a half mile of Columbus Junction, they abandoned the engine near a river. Those in pursuit this morning have found money sacks strewn along the way showing that the robbers had made a large haul.

Two of the robbers got on a train at Muscatine and hid in a closet. Confederates built a fire along the track and when the train passed the men on the train pulled the signal cord to stop. The robbers immediately covered the train crews. The safe was cracked with nitroglycerine. When the robbers abandoned the engine they reversed it and it "died" half a mile west of Letts. Rain began to fall before bloodhounds arrived and the dogs were useless.

The Davenport U. S. express agent says the robbers got no money and only some cheap jewelry. Two parties of detectives, one on either side of the Iowa river, are tracing the men toward Waytlo.

Mr. Mannett, of the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Taffeta Is Always Smart and Becoming—Late Motor Styles.
For dressy wear the soft taffeta frock seems very popular, and quite charming evening gowns are also made of it. A model seen recently was of sky blue taffeta, the full skirt gauged around on cords until midway between waist and knee, but otherwise guileless of decoration.

WHITE NEGLIGENCE.

The waist was similarly treated below a chemise of lace, and it was worn with a beautiful pale blue chiffon and lace evening coat cut very full and loose.

The strictly smart woman will leave the floating ends, the scarfs and other fluffy detail, including hat strings which tie under the chin, to her more picturesque but perhaps less well dressed sister. It is a question whether the picturesque in the present fashions is not carried too far by the woman who has not fine taste and discrimination.

The picture shows a dotted muslin negligee having a V shaped lace edged collar and very wide sleeve ruffles, also edged with the lace.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT

[Copyright, 1904, by K. A. Whitehead.]

"If mademoiselle wishes?" began the clerk.
"Pardon, monsieur, I am Mme. Montresor," interrupted the young woman.
"If madame wishes," corrected the clerk, "I am sure that M. Grignon would allow the buckle to be sent to the hotel. Certainly! Yes."

"But I do not wish him to send it to the hotel," replied Mme. Montresor. "I will call again tomorrow, and then perhaps M. Grignon may be in."

"We thank you," said the clerk.
Mme. Montresor left the jewelry shop in the Rue Scribe and walked slowly until she met at the next corner a man who bowed gravely to her and fell easily into step at her side.

"He was not there," remarked madame briefly.
"Too bad," said the man. "Another day lost."

"Yes," said madame, "and it is expensive, this staying at the Hotel Ritz. How much is left now?"
"About 2,000 francs."

"Well, that's enough for another week," mused madame as she and her companion walked toward the hotel.

The following day Mme. Montresor and the man walked into Grignon's shop again. The clerk who had waited upon her came forward. "M. Grignon is within," he said.

M. Grignon stepped forward. "What would it be that you wish?" he inquired.

Then he looked at the young woman. The man who had accompanied her stroled toward the door and stood swinging his walking stick.

"My father," began madame, "Herr Rudolph Richter, wishes me to select the gift which he proposes for my birthday. Yesterday your assistant was good enough to show to me a diamond buckle which would please me."

Grignon stared at her again. Her eyes dropped, and a faint flush came into her cheeks under the steady gaze.

"Would it be the Burma buckle?" asked Grignon finally.

"Perhaps. The man did not say," replied madame.

Grignon turned to a huge safe and took from it a tray containing gems which an expert would have valued at more than one fortune.

"That is the one," said madame, pointing to a most beautiful piece in the tray.

"That is the Burma buckle," said Grignon.

"And its price?" inquired madame.

"Eighty thousand francs," said Grignon.

Madame picked up the buckle and held it to her throat. "Is it well there?" she asked, and her glance fell straight into the eyes of Grignon.

"Adorable!" said the Frenchman.

"Tomorrow," continued madame, "is my birthday, the first since the death of my husband, and my father desires to give me what I like best. Now, if monsieur would be good enough to bring the buckle to the hotel tonight I have no doubt but that Herr Richter will purchase from him."

That evening Grignon went to the Hotel Ritz. Herr Richter appeared, saying that his daughter was in the garden. With Grignon he went in search of her.

They found her in the balcony. Grignon seated himself beside her, and Herr Richter walked away.

Grignon took the wonderful gems from the case. "I do not know," he began, "if madame understands love at first sight. She has had the goodness to tell me that she has been but recently made a widow through the unfortunate death of her husband. I have seen madame driving in the Bois these many years, but until yesterday when she came to my shop I had not known how much I loved her. If madame will deign to show me the favor of hoping that I may ask her to be my wife, then she will accept from me the Burma buckle in token of her favor."

Madame looked at him wonderingly. "Monsieur is good," she said.

Grignon laid the buckle in her hand. "It shall be as madame wishes," he said. He bowed and bade her good night. On the veranda he met Herr Richter. "I have asked your daughter to be my wife," he said, "and I have left with her the Burma buckle for her birthday gift."

Richter went back to the balcony. Madame held up the buckle for him to see.

"That was easier than stealing it," he said briefly.

Then he continued: "What will you do? Shall we take the midnight train for Berlin?"

"No," she replied. "I shall marry him. Then I shall give the gems to you."

A month later Grignon and Mme. Montresor were married. She wore the Burma buckle at her throat. The following day the papers told how Mme. Grignon had been robbed of her jewels, and later in Berlin the jewelers were buying unset gems of great value from a man who would have been recognized in the Rue Scribe as Herr Richter, the father of Mme. Montresor.

But Grignon had more gems, and he told his wife that the loss of the buckle should be replaced on her next birthday.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time. The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. Hayes, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. Hayes, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly it is said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Idaho Falls, Ida. Sept. 12.—Almost every business block in this city was wiped out by fire that started in the Butte cafe and which burned seven hours. The loss will reach $300,000, with small insurance. Fanned by a wind that blew with almost hurricane velocity the fire swept down Broadway, the principal business street, destroying every building for nearly seven blocks. The fire was confined to the business district, no residences being destroyed.

La Junta Colo., Sept. 12.—Robert Romaine, the prisoner at Topoka, Kan., who has confessed to complicity in the explosion at the Independence depot, Cripple Creek, on June 6, was, it has been discovered, in La Junta on that day. He worked in Santa Fe shops at La Junta for about two months, it is said, going under the name of I. O. White. But little credence is placed in his confession, in which he implicated several mining union officials.

Democratic Gains in Maine.

As was anticipated, the Republicans have carried Maine, as they did Vermont, by a considerable plurality, but one which shows a falling off of nearly 29,000 from 1896, and of about 5,000 from 1900. While the votes of both parties show an increase over four years ago, the Democratic increase is more than twice that of the Republicans. This is a distinct gain on the showing made in Vermont, and is evidence of the fact that the somewhat greater activity shown by the Democrats of Maine met with encouraging results. Had such work been put forth in Maine and Vermont as is being done in New York, Indiana and other doubtful States the Republican pluralities would have been much less. The election in these states show that the Democrats cannot depend upon Republican apathy, but must make a vigorous and thorough campaign to get out their voters, and that if this is done they have reason to hope for success.

The extreme length of Roosevelt's letter of acceptance—its great verbosity—shows its weakness. Mr. Roosevelt evidently desired to belaud the vital questions at issue by discussing a great number of subjects and using a multiplicity of words. It demon-

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Of Candidates For Nomination For Newark City and Township at the Coming Democratic Convention

The following gentlemen whose names appear in this column under this heading, announce themselves as candidates for the offices designated respectively, subject to the decision the Democracy of Newark city and township at their coming convention:

Councilman-at-Large,
FRED H. VOGELMEIER.

Township Trustee,
JOHN M. WILSON,
M. L. SHEPARD,
J. R. ANDERSON.

strates very clearly the weakness of his cause in the minds of thinking people.

The New York Republicans are greatly at sea in selecting a candidate for Governor. It is admitted on all sides that the strongest man they could nominate is Elihu Root, late of the Roosevelt cabinet. But the ex-Secretary refuses absolutely to be a candidate, for the reason that Mr. Roosevelt will not pledge himself not to be a candidate for a third presidential term in 1908.

When the Wisconsin election returns are heard from this fall, Chairman Babcock, of the Republican Congressional Committee, will look like thirty cents. Babcock had $,000 majority at the last election. But this year the Republican faction under the leadership of Gov. La Follette and all the Democrats are supporting the Democratic nominee, which insures his election by a large majority.

NO PANICS

Or Business Depression Will Result From Judge Parker's Election.

Occasionally we hear of a Democrat who expresses doubt as to the policy of the election of a Democratic President this year for the reason that a business reaction is probable, and that it should come under a Republican administration so that that party could be held responsible. This is a mistaken view for any Democrat to entertain. Under the Roosevelt administration and his peculiar personal interference in affairs, there has been considerable uneasiness manifested at the leading business centers of the country. In consequence of this there were some apprehensions of a panic. But this feeling of uncertainty and fear has been greatly allayed since the nomination of Judge Parker, in whom there is absolute confidence on the part of leading influences at the great commercial centers. The fact that all the leading independent newspapers of the East are supporting Judge Parker should be accepted in the nature of an assurance that no panic or business depression is at all probable in case of the Judge's election. The great independent newspapers of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other eastern cities are real exponents of legitimate business interests, and in fact are promoters of the welfare of sound business enterprises, commerce and trade. These great journals are not influenced or actuated by any motive pertaining to party politics, but are supporting Judge Parker for the reason that they feel assured that his election will promote the country's commercial and industrial interests and the welfare of the great mass of the people. These journals, knowing the safety and soundness of Judge Parker and the confidence in him that prevails at commercial centers, advocate his election because they feel assured that his success will be the best possible safeguard against panics and business depression that can be attained this Presidential year.

The Republican Yarn Book.

The Republican campaign book of 1904 is, perhaps, the greatest collection of political yarns ever put before the American people. Its 550 pages contain more fables, fairy tales, ghost stories and exaggerations than are contained in Arabian Nights, Aesop's Fables and Baron Munchausen. Were the tales told in an interesting way and had the various authors—mainly Government employees—a better sense of humor, this collection of Republican yarns might soon become one of the most popular story books. On page 3 we are gravely told that the "accuracy and absolute fairness" of the Bureau of Labor statistics on "Labor, Wages and Prices," which show that wages have advanced faster than prices, "have never been called in question" and that they provide "the very latest, most complete, and absolutely reliable information upon this vital topic."

We Democrats had an idea that we had for years been questioning the accuracy of the Bureau of Labor figures on wages, prices and cost of living. Our Literary Bureau has frequently, during the past two years, jumped on these figures with both feet. Hundreds and thousands of newspapers have printed these articles showing the absolute inaccuracy and grotesque absurdity of these figures. About August 1 the Chairman of the Congressional Committee gave to the press a lengthy criticism of the July, 1904, report of the Bureau of Labor upon this subject. This criticism, which was widely published, was generally considered to have demolished the Bureau of Labor statistics, both as to wages and prices. It was published weeks before the Republican campaign book was made public. Strange that its authors never heard of these criticisms.

DEMOCRATS

OF LICKING COUNTY PLEASE TAKE NOTICE.

Statement Issued By Chairman and Secretary of the County Executive Committee.

To the Democrats of Licking County:

We have sent to all township and district committeemen a letter urging them to call a primary election or caucus on or before September 17 for the purpose of putting in nomination candidates for all township, school and village offices for which election would have been held last spring had the law not been amended by the legislature.

In Bowling Green township, north and south precincts of Union township, Licking township, Hopewell township and Hebron village corporation, there have been held primary elections or caucuses and nominations have been made and certified to the county board of elections, which, under the law, must stand as the nominations for the coming general election.

But these townships and corporations will take notice that an additional primary election or caucus must be held by them for the purpose of placing in nomination five candidates for members of school boards, two for three years and three for four years, as provided by the new school code. All other townships, villages and special school districts must make the same nominations, as all present school boards cease to exist upon the election and organization of this new board. By reason of the fact that our school code has been entirely changed by the legislature, although the Hebron special school district has made its nomination and certified to the same it will be necessary as the law now stands for this district to hold a second primary election or caucus, and put in nomination five candidates for members of school board as afore mentioned. If any township or other district has failed to certify the same to the county board of elections, such certificate must be made at once and a primary election or caucus in such district called for the purpose of putting in nomination the candidates for members of the school board as above stated and for that purpose only.

B. F. McDONALD, Chairman.
FRANK A. BOLTON, Secretary.

The ran east on Locust street, and at the corner of Third and Locust crashed against a lamp post and tore the mail box loose, after which they dashed through the iron fence and into the premises of Mr. George B. Sprague, where they fell to the ground and were captured. The horses sustained a number of cuts and bad bruises.

The Davis Family Held an Enjoyable Reunion—The Third Annual Gathering of the Family.

Thursday, Sept. 8 was a happy event long to be remembered in the minds of the Davis family. It was their third annual reunion, and all gathered at Idlewild park to celebrate it. After having had an hour or more of greetings, the table was spread with the good things that had been prepared for this occasion. After dinner all enjoyed listening to a well prepared program, which consisted of songs and declamation, and at the close Dr. H. J. Davis gave an address in which he made several good hits with the Davis name. After that the election of officers was held and then came the parting time. No doubt everyone thought of that great reunion beyond the skies, where there will be no more parting, and the whole family will be gathered home.

which appears here at the Auditorium next Monday night, Sept. 19th, is such a play. Dealing with people whom we meet and know in everyday life the author has told a story full of heart interest in simple language and with a directness and adherence to the theme that is refreshing in this day of superfluous dialogue.

THOMAS JEFFERSON "RIP."

Thomas Jefferson, who is starring in "Rip Van Winkle," has this to say to young persons who desire to enter stage life: "Stay out of it. Unless you have the 'divine spark' unless you are prepared to meet many rebuffs, many discouragements, and are determined to overcome many obstacles, there is no use in going on the stage. The profession is overstocked but all professions are much the same. But if any young man or woman wants to adopt a stage career I think the best thing for themselves and the profession is to get it hard at first, and if they stand all the disheartening incidents of the first year or two and are still eager to go on, they may come to something. But as a rule they don't last. The trouble with most young people who attempt acting is that they don't want hard work; and hard work and lots of it is essential to an actor's success."

Mr. Jefferson will appear in Newark on September 26 at the Auditorium.

WOLTZ AGAIN ARRESTED

Aged Real Estate Man, Formerly a Newark Resident, Again Got Away But Was Recaptured When His Coat Tail Caught on a Fence Paling.

Last week the Advocate announced the arrest and subsequent escape of G. W. J. Woltz, a former Newark real estate man who while here was associated with Miller & Struble in business on the east side of the public square. Woltz has again been captured, the following from Lancaster giving the details of the interesting story:

Lancaster, Ohio, Sept. 13.—Chief of Police Wallace went to the home of H. Woltz, near Colfax, yesterday and arrested G. W. J. Woltz, aged 82 years. Woltz was taken to Columbus and he will be turned over to the United States authorities.

Last Wednesday Woltz was arrested in Marysville at the request of the Government authorities who want him for using the mails for fraudulent purposes. He is said to have been mixed up in extensive land swindles. On account of Woltz's advanced age Chief Murphy did not lock him up, but placed him in charge of the proprietor of the Cottage hotel, where Woltz had been arrested.

Woltz escaped before the Chief had succeeded in communicating with the United States authorities. He left behind him two grips, one containing clothing and the other a number of jeweler's tools and a large bundle of deeds to property located in different parts of the United States. The deeds were all made out in Woltz's name, representing several thousand dollars.

A few days ago he showed up in this city and made a land deal with

Col. J. C. Hite, trading him 375 acres of unimproved land near Island Ford, in Morgan county, Tenn., for six lots in Kansas City, Kan., worth $9,000, and $25 in cash. Colonel Hite asserts there is no such place in Tennessee, and that Woltz had no deed to any property in Morgan county.

Sunday Chief Wallace learned of the Marysville episode and that Woltz was wanted by the United States authorities, so yesterday he started out to run and might have escaped, but his coat tails caught on a picket fence and here the Chief caught him while he was vainly endeavoring to free his voluminous garments from the picket.

Woltz says that he has not been guilty of any land swindles and is wanted by the postoffice authorities only as a witness. He said that he acted as corresponding secretary for Miller & Struble in Newark, Ohio, that was nabbed by the postoffice authorities about a year ago for conducting a land-swindling business.

Since this deal was made Woltz has traded the Kansas City lots to a man in Leipsic, Ohio, for $45.

Woltz, though 82 years old, has married three times and is three times a widower. His first wife of Celia Ozle, who lived in Gibsonville, O.; the second, a Miss Hedges of Tallon, and the third, a Miss Rock of Ridgeville, Ind. He has one son, William, living in this city and a grandson, H. Woltz, who lives near Colfax. He was turned over to the United States officers in Columbus yesterday afternoon.

NEWARK ATTORNEY

Leaves for Engand as Representative of Heirs of Estate of Sir Francis Drake—Large Sum Involved --Purpose of the Trans-Atlantic Trip.

Attorney Homer Sparks of the law firm of Russell & Sparks, leaves tonight for New York and will on Thursday sail for England as legal representative of the heirs of the estate of Sir Francis Drake, which consists of 3,000 acres of land worth on an average of $400 per acre. The American heirs live in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and Mr. James M. Drake of McConnellsville will follow Attorney Sparks to England.

The Drake estate is now in the court of Chancery, held by three trustees. It is conceded by the trustees that the line of Drake heirs in England has run out, and that the estate should be inherited by American representatives of the family. The clients of Messrs. Russell & Sparks have records carrying them back into the English family and as the Drake family was of such prominence in England, no difficulty is anticipated in tracing the genealogy there.

The land consists of parks and large tracts, and the English people are anxious that the American heirs establish their claims so that the land may be sold. Mr. Sparks' mission is to employ English attorneys to bring suit to establish the claims of his clients to the estate of the famous admiral. He represents about 90 heirs.

A peculiar fact in connection with the American heirs' contention is, that it has the support of all interested parties in England, so that Mr. Sparks is really going into the camp of his friends.

L. C. Russell was in England in 1902 to establish the fact that the property could be taken by American claimants, and Mr. Sparks will now take the proper steps to get the land.

Mr. Sparks is a son of Rev. L. C. Sparks, pastor of the First M. E. church. He expects to be gone about 50 days. He goes from New York to Plymouth, England from there to Exeter and then to London.

Sir Francis Drake, an English navigator and naval commander, was born at Tavistock, Devonshire, in 1545. He first served in the royal navy under his relative, Sir John Hawkins, and distinguished himself by his valor in an unsuccessful expedition against the Spaniards, in the harbor of Vera Cruz in 1570 he went to the West Indies, on a cruise against the Spaniards, which he soon renovated with success and in 1572, having received the command of the vessels, for the purpose of attacking the commercial ports of Spanish America, he took possession of two of their cities, and returned laden with booty. On his return he equipped in Ireland, and later at his own expense, with which he served as a volunteer, under the Earl of Essex, and distinguished himself so much by his bravery, that Sir Christopher Hatton introduced him to Queen Elizabeth.

Sir Francis Drake disclosed his plans to the Queen, and being furnished with five ships, he sailed, in 1577, to attack the Spaniards in the South Seas. In this expedition the Spanish settlements, explored the North American coasts as far as 48 degrees north latitude, and gave the name of New Albion to the country he had discovered. He then went to the East Indies and having doubled the Cape of Good Hope, returned to Plymouth in 1580. The Queen dined on board the ship at Deptford, and knighted him. In 1585 he again sailed to the West Indies, and succeeded in taking several places and ships. In 1597 he commanded a fleet of 30 sail, with which he entered the harbor at Cadiz and other Spanish ports, and destroyed an immense number of ships which were preparing for the great attack on England, and, in the following year, he commanded as vice admiral under Lord Howard and had his share in the destruction of the Spanish Armada. In 1598 Sir Francis Drake died off Nombre de Dios.

FORMER LICKING COUNTY MAN KILLED AT ZANESVILLE.

For Years Mr. Smith Had Been Cashier of the Old Citizens' Bank— Was 72 Years Old.

Word was received here from Zanesville on Monday evening that the body of the venerable A. V. Smith had been found lying alongside the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks in that city. His shoulder was crushed and blood was flowing from his mouth. He was hurriedly taken to the hospital. In a semi-conscious condition he stated that he fell from a passenger train, but it is believed that he was struck by a passing train. He died at the hospital Monday evening without having recovered consciousness sufficiently to tell just how he met his death.

The deceased formerly resided in Licking county, near Granville, but had made his home in Zanesville for many years, where he was a prominent resident, and while for many years he was the cashier of the old Citizens' bank. He served as cashier of the bank until about ten months ago, when he retired from active business life. He was aged 72 years, and was born in Fairbairn, Vt. Besides his widow, he leaves two sons, Vincent Smith and William A. Smith, both of New York City, and one daughter, Mrs. H. M. Linn of Zanesville. Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at the home, and private interment in Woodlawn cemetery.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

One of Needs of Newark Which in Other Respects is Right Up to the Minute—A Plea.

(Communicated.)

Some time has elapsed since we called the attention of our people to what we consider a matter of vital importance to the well-being, as well as prosperity of our beautiful city. We are well aware of the many objections urged by some against an enterprise of this kind, still we are satisfied that the rank and file of our citizens are in favor of the scheme and will be only too glad to render a helping hand in their attempts to push it to completion. It has been a matter of surprise to strangers who visit our city that with all our other advantages we do not possess a public library. Other cities, much smaller than Newark can and have boasted for years that while they do not possess many things in common with other cities, they bank largely on their public library. In their opinion it is just as indispensable as many other institutions of which we so proudly boast.

Our city is now growing to mammoth proportions and in point of intelligence and enterprise cannot be surpassed by any of her sister cities. Why then, should she not give this matter of a public library her unqualified approval, and see to it that it will not be long before she can boast of as fine a public library as any in the state?

We believe that all that is necessary to make the matter a success is to bring the matter home to the attention of our thinking classes.

What! a city of twenty-five thousand inhabitants and no public library? The idea seems preposterous, and yet it is a veritable fact. We feel that this matter has been overlooked of late, and in our scramble for the accumulation of the almighty dollar, we have lost sight entirely of what we consider one of the greatest needs, namely, a public library. Every one should take a personal pride in this matter, and see to it that Newark is not much longer to be deprived of this long cherished enterprise.

That great modern philanthropist, Andrew Carnegie, who has been so generous to other cities, might be induced to bestow some of his benefactions upon our city. Most certainly we are as deserving as other cities, who have been recipients of his liberality.

Akron Series Declared Off—Newark Team Will Play in Zanesville Thursday, Sept. 15.

The bowling alley on the Idlewild baseball grounds is being moved, and when Manager Driscoll went up to open up the grounds he found the big building nearly on second base. Of course it was impossible to play and the Akron games were cancelled and that team left for home Monday night.

Idlewild will play in Zanesville on Thursday, and the Moguls will come to Newark for games on Friday and Saturday.

What One Woman Says:

MISS J. A. COLLINS, Lancaster, Ohio, writes: "I have used VITONA for several years and I can say that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever used. It has cured my skin, my hair, and my general health. I feel like a new woman now." VITONA "The New Way to Health"

It will do for any suffering woman what it did for Mrs. McCollins. It is a perfect cure of all skin diseases, such as eczema, psoriasis, and all the troubles of the scalp. It restores the hair to its natural color and makes it grow again. It cures the system. May delay a single hair which has fallen out, and restores the hair to its natural color. B. & O. TO MAKE IMPROVEMENTS AT CLEVELAND.

A Patent Stoker—Mr. Wilder's Son is Married in Kentucky—Local and General News.

A party of B. & O. officials will be in Cleveland this week for the purpose of inspecting the terminals there and for a minute examination of the needs of the company at Cleveland.

The B. & O. will next season expend about $600,000 on docks and terminal facilities at Cleveland. The expenditure has been authorized after a most careful canvass of the situation and a review of the traffic possibilities of the territory.

The plan is to provide adequate shipping facilities for the traffic originating in the southern part of the state and the valley to the east of Cleveland. Modern coal and ore loading machines are to be put in and the dock facilities greatly enlarged.

A Patent Stoker.

A new patent stoker has been built by the workmen at the Bloomington shops of the Chicago & Alton road, and it will soon be attached to one of the large locomotives.

The stoker is entirely different from those previously experimented with. It is operated by a small upright engine, which is about three feet in height and sets next to the boiler head. Below is a chute 12 inches square, which sets into the firebox opening, and through which the coal is poured.

The fireman has simply to see that the reservoir is kept full.

The coal is forced by a revolving fan into the firebox and scattered as desired over the fire. It is claimed that common screenings can be used, as well as lump coal, and a great saving of labor and fuel is effected by its use.

Wilder's Son Weds.

For the second time within a few years Col. D. S. Wilder, the well-known division passenger agent of the B. & O. R., has been called upon to extend parental forgiveness to a son who eloped and returned with a blushing bride.

He was considerably wrought up, Monday, when his son, Bliss W. Wilder, confided that he had been secretly married to Miss Marie L. Jordan, at Covington, Ky., Sunday. After expressing his indignation and parental displeasure, Capt. Wilder very graciously relented and said "Bless you, my children."

Recently Mr. Wilder was appointed passenger agent for the B. & O. in Columbus. He is popular and a young railroad man with a promising career before him.

Field's Minstrels New Car.

The Al Field Greater Minstrels have received a new car from the builders that is attracting a great deal of attention from railroad men. It is an innovation in car building. The trucks of the car are composed of several thicknesses of steel plates bolted together. Heretofore seasoned hardwood has been considered the best material for the construction of all trucks under passenger cars. But it has been found that in the use of wood with the derailment of the car the bolt holes are enlarged and the trucks and cars are destroyed. The inventor of the steel trucks claims that they are indestructible. The car built for Mr. Field is the first to be equipped with these trucks.

G. W. NEIGHBARGER.

George W. ## Two Points Of View

By GRANT OWEN

Copyright, 1904, by H. E. Sheldon

He was big, broad shouldered and good to look upon. His clothes were faultless in cut and texture. His collar and shoes were always indisputably correct. He seemed broad, genial, prosperity incarnate. The smile on his large, rather homely features was particularly winning. He was always smiling. He smiled now as he stood before the girl, even though he was vaguely aware of some impending calamity.

"How could you?" Miss Train was saying in injured protest. "Oh, how could you?"

"How could I what, Amy?" Jarvis asked.

"How could you sleep as you did last evening when I was trembling—simply trembling—under the spell of that voice?"

"Did I?" he said doubtfully. "Oh, come now, Amy, that was impossible."

"Nevertheless you did," she answered. "It was sacrilege."

"Look here," he said, "I'm sure you must be mistaken. I'll admit I might doze intermittently at 'Aida' or 'Traviata' or 'Faust,' but at Tannhauser never. I'm wide awake when Wagner is on the boards."

She glanced up hopefully. Had he really some canons of art, after all? There was no doubt of sincerity in his tones. Perhaps this harsh judgment of him which she was aware had been formulating itself in her mind the past year was unjust to him. Perhaps, hidden behind that noncommittal smile, was a reverence for things artistic which his outward appearance successfully masked. But these thoughts were rudely quashed by his next remark.

"Sleep during 'Tannhauser'?" he laughed. "Absurd, Amy! Who on earth could sleep in such a tin shop racket as that?"

The girl winced. "Arthur!" she said in shocked remonstrance.

He moved in his chair uneasily.

"There I go again!" he said. "Forgive me. Really, I didn't mean to shock you, but I'm so brutally practical, you know."

"That's just it," said the girl, "so brutally practical. I wanted to see you this afternoon to talk about that very thing. I—I don't know just how to make you understand it, but I'm afraid we won't be at all happy together. We're so very different—so very far apart."

"YOU! DIDN'T YOU SAIL TODAY?"

The smile left his face momentarily.

"You don't mean?" he began.

"Yes," she said very low. "I don't think we are suited to each other, Arthur."

It took him some time to grasp the full import of her words. Then the smile came back, but it was a very artificial smile.

"Perhaps you are right," he said, with a huskiness in his big voice. "Perhaps you wouldn't be happy with a commonplace sort of chap like me. And your happiness, Amy, is the first and only thing that is worthy of my thoughts. You might see how a month without me might work anyway. And if it isn't all you expect, why, call me back, dear. I shall always be ready to come."

She watched him down the street until he turned a corner. But before that corner was reached she had already felt a queer tightening at her throat, and the houses across the street were blurred to her vision.

Three weeks passed, and she looked at the matter much more calmly. It was best thus. She had been quite right in her judgment, she decided. Then came the disturbing note from him:

My Dear Amy—I have decided to take a little run abroad. Any communication addressed care of the Colonial club, London, will reach me. I sail Thursday morning at 10. As ever, yours,

ARTHUR E. JARVIS.

She was angry with herself for feeling disturbed at the contents of the note. She tried to believe a tear that plashed on to the paper did not alter her attitude toward Jarvis, but she was distinctly dismal all the afternoon.

That evening she went to the opera with young Carlton Morley, who appreciated things artistic and was an enthusiast in Wagnerian scores. Morley was particularly brilliant that evening, but Amy Train beside him was thinking how insignificant and conceited he was. She was unutterably bored by his witty criticism of the box holders, and his enthusiasm over the tenor's work seemed almost effeminate in its effusion.

On the way home in the carriage Morley talked incessantly of orchestration and harmony, but his monologue fell on unheeding ears. Amy was looking pensively through the carriage window. She was thinking that Jarvis sailed tomorrow at 10 and that even if she called him it would be over a week after his receipt of it before she would see him. She devoutly wished Morley at the ends of the earth. She wanted to put her head down on the cushion and cry.

Thursday afternoon at 3 she sat in the library vainly trying to interest herself in the pages of a current magazine. The doorbell rang, and she heard a well known step across the hall. She sprang up as Jarvis entered.

With an effort she refrained from rushing to him. She leaned against a chair and said weakly:

"You? Didn't you sail today?"

"Of all the idiots," he announced, "I'm chief and foremost. Just before we sailed I realized it all—that instead of relieving my loneliness those 3,000 miles of sea would intensify it. I fled down the gangplank like a man possessed just as they were hauling it up. I simply had to see you again."

"I've been horribly lonely," she confessed, "but I didn't realize it all until last night. I went to the opera, and I wanted you with me even there."

He smiled happily.

"It wasn't the same without you," she said.

He had taken her in his arms. Now he was looking down at her and laughing softly.

"Perhaps you missed my accompanying snore," he chuckled.

"I did—oh, I did!" she said, pressing one of his big hands to her hot cheek.

The Sign of the Patch.

Mrs. Murray had advertised for a skilled gardener to work by the day in her yard, and somewhat to her embarrassment she was obliged to choose between two applicants who appeared at the same moment. As she stood on her doorstep, questioning first one and then the other, she became aware that her mother-in-law, seated on the porch a short distance from the men and directly behind them, was frantically gesticulating.

The old lady, satisfied at last that she had attracted her daughter-in-law's attention, pointed unmistakably toward the less prepossessing of the two men, and the younger woman, supposing that her relative had some personal knowledge of the applicant, promptly engaged him.

"Has that man ever worked for you, mother?" asked Mrs. Murray when the two women were alone.

"No," replied the old lady. "I never saw or heard of either of 'em until now."

"Then why in the world did you choose the shorter man? The other had a much better face."

"Face!" returned the old lady briskly. "When you pick out a man to work in the garden you want to go by his overalls. If they're patched on the knees, you want him. If the patch is on the seat, you don't."—Youth's Companion.

Heard a Great Deal.

He—Well, did you enjoy the evening?

She—Indeed I did. We went to the opera.

He—Of course you enjoyed it?

She—Immensely.

He—What did you hear?

She—What did I hear? Well, what didn't I hear? I heard that Nell Vanderyke is engaged to Tom Brown and that Jack Rentschlow and Edith Singleton have quarreled and are not going to be married after all. Then I heard that Mrs. Tenbrooke is going to get a divorce from her husband, Mrs. Thorndyke has been sued by her dressmaker, The Livingstons have a baby, Count Cantukount is not a count at all, The Thompson boys—

He—But—

She—Well, don't interrupt me. I thought you wanted to know what I heard?

He—So I did, but—

She—Well, keep still, then. I—

He—What I meant was what opera did you hear?

She—Oh, well, I'm sure I can't remember, but I saw the name on the programme.

What a First Class Fare Means.

There are some people who imagine that wealth entitles them to privileges not accorded to the general public and exempts them from obligations and rules that others are disposed to obey. An incident which occurred on one of our ocean steamers conveys a wholesome lesson to the purse proud contentmenters of the rights of the majority. A family of unlimited wealth had secured the best accommodation the steamer afforded.

The gentleman and his wife kept themselves secluded most of the time, but the children were allowed to run wild over the steamer until they became such intolerable nuisances that the captain was spoken to, and he gave the youngsters a severe reprimand. This roused the indignation of the mother, who remarked to the captain that as she paid first class fare she thought she was entitled to first class privileges.

"Madam," said the captain, "first class fare means first class conduct." There was no further protest.—London Tit-Bits.

HOME DECORATION.

WINDOWS AND THEIR TREATMENT IN A NEAT SUBURBAN HOME.

A North Window the Best Place For a Dressing Table—Delightful Soft Toned Draperies—A Large Bay Window Charmingly Planned.

The office of a window is primarily to let in light and air, and happy is he who may live in a many windowed home, for such a home, under wise management, is full of sunshine and the purity of fresh air.

The wind we have shown are those of a neat suburban home.

It is well known that a north light, being diffused, is more agreeable than the light from other points of the compass. For this reason a window to the north is best for the placing of a dressing table, where there are other windows to furnish ventilation and outlook.

The illustration shows a pretty arrangement of table and draperies that at once secures not only the desired light, but the desirable privacy for the person using it.

Without proper dressing table conveniences and proper lighting one is apt to make mistakes in the arrangement of one's hair or one's bonnet or neckwear. One need not have extravagant furnishings, but they should be pleasant and attractive to look at and convenient as well. One need never apologize for desiring to make one's home attractive and restfully pleasing, for "beauty is its own excuse for being."

Select suitable material as to texture, material lovely as to color for the draperies, and, no matter how little it costs, if it is arranged simply and in graceful lines the results will be artistic.

There are some rules to observe and an important one is this: If the walls are figured let the draperies be of a solid color—ivory, old rose, soft blue, silver green—whatever will be harmonious with the general color effect of the room.

If the walls are of one color throughout or in shades of a self color, the design inconspicuous, then have your flowered draperies if you will, and the effect will be pleasing. Figures everywhere without any surfaces of repose are distracting to the eye and brain, and only the most robust can endure them.

The second illustration suggests a charming treatment for the large bay window of a parlor or sitting room facing the north. The casement windows are fitted with long slender poles on which may be run back and forth the semitransparent summer curtains or the heavier winter ones. Advantage has been taken of the three sided bay to have ample window seats, where one may sit or lounge at ease with one's favorite book or bit of needlework.

Casement windows arranged to swing inward, it may be here remarked, are more convenient, but especially pleasant are those that swing both ways, for they permit the use of wire netting and storm sashes, as the season may require, and both are invaluable additions to comfort.

A bay like this is a most picturesque feature of a room and may be had, when building, at small additional expense. In a room of southern exposure it will give in winter almost the advantages of a sun parlor.

The Ladies' World, the source of the foregoing, says that some of the new window curtains in dress effects carry out the elaborate drapery style of the voluminous skirted gown of our grand mothers' days, which are coming in again. Many of these curtains are ugly with their puffings, shirrings and tucks, especially the heavy satin foulards. Far better for the window of the den or living room are the pretty new chintzes in either figured or plain white.

ELOPES

With a Girl Only 15 Years Old

FRANK GRAEF AND BLANCHE HARRIS MISSING

Graef's Wife a Few Weeks Ago Killed Herself.

MOTHER OF GIRL INTERVIEWED

Said Daughter Left Home Monday to Go to Columbus, But a Letter Brought News.

"Where is 'Flicker' Graef?" This question is one which no one in Newark can or will answer. But enough evidence was gathered by an Advocate reporter to prove conclusively that he has eloped with Blanche Harris, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harris of 80 North Pine street, with whom he has been infatuated for some time.

Frank Graef, known among his intimates as "Flicker," conducts a saloon on South Third street, between the Adams Express office and the canal. He has on several occasions been in trouble with women and about six weeks ago his wife, after having him arrested for abuse, committed suicide with carbolic acid.

Graef's attentions to other women were the cause of his arrest, and many believe finally caused his wife to take her own life. His attention to the Harris girl have been so marked and circumstances were of such a nature that only a few weeks ago Mr. Lee Harris, father of the girl, was ready to file an affidavit against Graef.

Graef made a remark in a barber-shop Monday that he was going to leave the city, and in response to a query as to where he was going, replied: "I'm going to be married." He was seen in company with Blanche Harris in the morning, and both have left Newark.

"Jimmy," Holmes, bartender at Graef's saloon, said Tuesday that Graef had gone out of the city, he thought to St. Louis.

The Advocate sent a man to the Harris home, 80 North Pine street, and Mrs. Harris got the first news of her daughter's probable elopement from him. She then gave the following statement corroborative of the reporter's information:

"Blanche dressed herself in the morning and told me that she was going to Columbus to visit her aunt, Mrs. Jake Hamilton, who lives at 582 Harrison avenue. I started to accompany her to the interurban station, but she made excuses to keep me from doing this. I finally left her on Main street and returned home, supposing she had gone to Columbus. This morning I received a letter from Mrs. Hamilton's sister, Irene Martin, saying that Blanche had not come. I went to a relative's Monday afternoon to make a call, and they told me to watch Blanche as she was going to run away and marry 'Flicker' Graef. I told them she was visiting in Columbus, but am now satisfied that she has eloped with him.

"Of course I am heartbroken at my daughter's actions, but he seemed to have almost a hypnotic power over her, and I would rather see her married to him than to have any other relations with him."

It is reported that Graef went to Kentucky where he married the Harris girl. Graef and the Harris girl were at Shrader's place at Avondale where they remained over Monday night as man and wife. Graef said he was on his wedding trip.

Mrs. Graef committed suicide on July 23.

ENGINEER CHAPIN

Made an Oral Report to the City Council Monday Night Advising the City to Purchase the Present Water Works Plant.

The city council met Monday night with President pro tem, W. E. Miller, in the chair and the following members present: Carille, Conrad, Baker, Moser, Hunter and Jones, present.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read by Ralph Davis and approved.

City Auditor Maurath reported that he had offered $269,000 water works bonds to the board of sinking fund trustees, in their official capacity, and they were refused for want of funds.

Property owners on Stanberry street petitioned that said street be paved; referred to street committee.

Mayor A. J. Conly reported $375 collected for fines and licenses, during the month of August; received and filed.

The finance committee reported that the ordinance appropriating $1,600 for expenses of the deputy state supervisors of election, he passed; received and filed.

A resolution was introduced by Judge Hunter to appoint a committee of the council to employ a competent engineer at an expense of $200; rules suspended and resolution adopted. Passed yeas 7. The engineer thus employed will make an examination of the water works system and report to the city council as soon as his work is completed.

A resolution to serve notices on property owners on Pine, West Main, Union, Wing and Grant streets, and Flory avenue, to pave sidewalks, was passed.

An ordinance establishing a grade on Sixteenth street was read for the first time and passed under a suspension of the rules.

An ordinance was read for the first time to improve Locust, from Fifth to Twelfth streets, by paving; passed under a suspension of the rules.

An ordinance was read for the first time to levy special assessments for the improvement of Hoover street, from Eddy to Buckingham streets; rules suspended and ordinance passed. Attorney J. A. Flory addressed the council in favor of the passage of the street paving ordinance and the ordinance establishing a grade on Sixteenth street.

Attorney Roderick Jones representing the citizens of Oakwood avenue, made a speech to the council, protesting against the putting down of a sewer on that avenue. Judge Hunter moved that the resolution for the Oakwood sewer be referred to the committee on streets; the resolution was referred.

W. A. Vech, superintendent of the Newark Water Works company, stated that L. E. Chapin, the expert engineer who had been employed by the company to examine the water works system, was ready to report.

Unanimous consent was given for Mr. Chapin to report, which he did orally. The gist of his report was that it would require $280,000 to replace the present plant and that in his opinion it would be good business judgment for the city to buy the present system which was in a good state of efficiency.

FATALLY INJURED

Al Zeigler of Columbus Was Struck by a Buckeye Lake Traction Car West of Reynoldsburg Monday Evening.

Al Zeigler, whose home is in Columbus, was probably fatally injured Monday night on the tracks of the Columbus, Buckeye Lake & Newark Electric road, west of Reynoldsburg.

Mr. Zeigler boarded a westbound car at Reynoldsburg with a ticket to Columbus, which he gave to the conductor. For some reason he decided to go back to Reynoldsburg, and signalled the conductor to stop at Rose Hill, the first stop west of that village. He got off and evidently became confused as to directions and walked west on the track. The east-bound car which left Columbus at 6 o'clock, struck him.

A great gash was cut in his head, his skull was fractured and his jaw bone broken. He was taken to Columbus and hurried to Grant hospital, where little hope is entertained for his recovery.
